We have included a listing of the names and addresses but not the numbers of the individuals in the UK telephone directories, later in this section. This extract of names was taken from a computer printout of the directories, which is available from British Telecom. It was searched for the whole of the country under the fields - JEFc, JEFFc and JEPHC. This search revealed many Jeffcock entries, which have been ignored.

We have used the information from the directories to demonstrate how individual spellings of the name are more prevalent in certain areas. The results of this exercise are shown in Chapter 9.

The Telephone Directories for Australia and New Zealand for 1982

The information given in this section was kindly provided by Sue McBeth of Melbourne, Australia.

The following listing of surname spellings is placed in the order used in other sections of this book. Against each name, there is a number indicating the frequency with which they occur in the telephone directories for both countries.

Surprisingly, Jephcott is most common in Australia, but Jeffcoat in New Zealand.
