Total from 1837 to 1900 - 809 marriages
Average no of marriages - 12.84 per year

The names of the bride or groom and their place of marriage from 1837 are shown in the index on the following pages. From 1912, the surname of the spouse is given, making a search that much easier and family groupings possible when searching the births index. From 1946, the index is incomplete, although details of what is available, can be obtained on application.

The Warwickshire Rural Marriage Index

Many local family history societies operate projects to transcribe parish registers. The Birmingham and Midland Society for Genealogy and Heraldry (BMSGH) are compiling an index of marriages found in the parish registers of Warwickshire rural areas. The marriages included in the index are mainly those up to 1837 and those that the Mormons have not included in the IGI.

We spent some time around 1985, transcribing the Jephcott marriages that the WRMI held, of which there were then about 220. These marriages were put on to our Genbase computer programme and are incorporated into the index shown in Chapter 9.

No doubt, the index has grown since our last visit and an update of our transcript is needed.

Boyd's Marriage Index

In the 1930s, a gentleman named Percival Boyd, compiled what became known as Boyd's Marriage Index. It comprises around seven million marriages taken from various parish registers and is now held at the Society of Genealogists.

I searched the index around 1982 and what few Jephcotts there were, have now been entered on to the Genbase directory (see section 9). Mr Boyd used his own special system and the spellings were phonetic rather than 'as written.' Therefore it can be a little misleading when looking for a particular spelling of the name.
